Renforth Announces Exploration on the Cosby Property

Toronto, Canada (November 30, 2006) – Renforth Resources Inc. (“Renforth”) announces that it has commenced the next stage of exploration on its Cosby gold project in the Timmins-Kirkland Lake area of Northern Ontario.

The company has engaged MPH Consulting Ltd. to manage a line cutting, geological mapping and geophysical survey on the Cosby property. The work is now underway and is designed to test a number of conductors that have been partially delineated from exploration conducted by Renforth and by previous property holders.

Previously Renforth had conducted geophysics on two conductors that had been identified by previous exploration on the property. One had been drilled and encountered mineralization. However additional work is required to delineate the conductors in detail and to establish potential drill targets.
